

Saturday 7th February 2009

Alcester RFC

Alcester's scheduled fixtures went the same way as the local rugby programme, in falling victim to the wintry weather conditions.

Alcester 1st XV's game at Wellesbourne will now try again for the third time later this month, after two postponements already this year.

The King's Coughton men now prepare for a massive week that could define their season. On Saturday the 1st XV play host to league leaders Rugby Welsh, the only side to have beaten them in league action this season. The Anglo Welsh Valentines Day show down continues in the bar after the match, with the flat screen in the club house showing England's visit to the Millennium Stadium to take on the reigning Six Nations champions. Friends old and new are welcome to come along and support both games, with the live action on the field kicking off from 2.15pm and the screen action from 5.30pm.
